Brighten Up

"Brighten Up" time is here—the time to clean up about the house, renovate, and make the old things look neat and clean again. We can help you in the work with our line of SHERWIN-WILLIAMS PAINTS AND VARNISHES.

It is really surprising what a little paint or varnish will do toward brightening up dingy surroundings. Take The S-W. Family Paint, for instance. This is a linseed oil paint specially prepared for home decorating and painting. With it any one can renew the appearance of a hundred little things that now look worn and old. It dries with a good gloss and will stand scrubbing with soap and water. Comes in 26 attractive shades.

The S-W. Floorlac is another splendid household brightener. It is a stain and varnish combined and can be used on old or new woods equally well. Imitates the natural woods and gives a most pleasing effect.

These offer a few hints for you. Come in and have a "Brighten Up" talk with us and learn more about how we can help you in your Fall cleaning. Our line has a paint or varnish for every purpose.

Are You Encouraging Thrift In Your Children?

A practice fast gaining in popularity with thoughtful parents is that of starting a Savings Account for their children. Such accounts can be opened in the child's name or in the parent's name "in trust" for the child.

The wisdom of this is evident. The child is encouraged to save, and deposits made regularly quickly accumulate to a material sum. We solicit accounts of this nature and pay interest at 4 per cent per annum, compounded semi-annually.

New Road Promised

Supervisor John Roll has assured the special road committee of the Improvement Club that the piece of Campbell avenue road bed from the Southern Pacific tracks east to Johnson avenue will be re-made with a concrete base and completed just like the state highway.

As Mr. Roll's crew of road workers are now busy on an other piece of work it will not be possible to complete this year but Mr. Roll has said that the work will be completed by the time that the state highway is finished that far. Thus thru the efforts of the Improvement Club and Mr. Roll's willingness to do the right thing we will have an A-1 road.

Keesling--Husted

Two of the pioneer families of Santa Clara county were united Saturday evening when Miss Mildred C. Keesling and George L. Husted were united in marriage at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Keesling, on Johnson avenue.

The Rev. Geo. E. Atkinson read the ring ceremony, the bridal couple standing beneath the archway which was embowered with flowers.

Dr. E. A. Abbott, of San Jose sang "O Promise Me" accompanied by Mrs. Abbott, sister of the bride, who also played the wedding march.

The house was most beautifully decorated with woodwardia and chrysanthemums. Refreshments were served by the Misses Alice and Hazel Abbott and Mrs. Geo. Schuyler.

The happy couple are on their honeymoon and will make their future home at Saratoga where Mr. Husted is associated with the Saratoga Lumber Co.

A number of guests were present and the happy couple were the recipients of many beautiful gifts.

Yeomen to Give Social Dance at Campbell

A social dance will be given by the YEOMEN SOCIAL CLUB, on Friday evening, November 5th. In the I. O. O. F. Hall, Campbell, Cal. This affair will be the initial social event of the Yeomen at Campbell and the committee in charge are making elaborate arrangements for the entertainment of guests. Special features of the evening will be a grand march in which each participant will be presented with a souvenir of the occasion. Music will be furnished by the Yeomen Orchestra and an enjoyable evening's entertainment is assured all who may attend.

The Brotherhood of American Yeomen are organizing a branch of the Society at Campbell and are meeting with much success, the organization work at Campbell is in charge of special organizer Carl Anderson formerly of St. Paul, Minn. Mr. Anderson reports splendid progress, and anticipates that within a short time the Campbell branch of the Yeomen will have a membership of One Hundred strong. Thus far within the last two weeks forty have signed the charter petition, and among the number are many of Campbell's leading citizens. A Yeomen degree staff as well as a young ladies military drill team will be organized in connection with the Campbell branch. A Yeomen quartet and also a Yeomen orchestra will also be organized.

The Yeomen are also organizing a branch of the Society at Los Gatos and are meeting with considerable success there also, several branches will be organized in Santa Clara county, including Saratoga, Santa Clara, Sunnyvale, Gilroy, Mountain View, Mayfield and Palo Alto.

The Brotherhood of American Yeomen as a Society is eighteen years old, has over two hundred and ten thousand members, and admits both men and women on equal terms.

The Campbell branch will be instituted within the next two weeks and at a later meeting a large class of candidates will be initiated into the mysteries of Yeomenry by the excellent degree staff of San Jose Homestead No. 17.

Campbell Boys Won

The league game between the local Highs and Montezuma boys was played on the local basket ball court Saturday resulting in a decisive victory for Campbell, 42 to 18 final score.

The first half thru which most of our boys slept and dreamed dreams of future glory proved the Mountaineers the stronger aggregation and finished with Campbell on the wrong side of the ledger 14 to 16.

This slight lead was just enough to stir our boys to vigorous action and the way they made baskets was a marvel. The Monte boys made but one basket from the field and had but one chance on a foul, missing that. During the second half, our team, every man of which we are justly proud, made 28 points to their opponents 2. That's the game boys, only don't let the other fellow get the jump on you and hold the lead in the first half.

Home and School Club Entertain

The community social held by the Home and School Club on the Grammar School grounds Saturday evening was well attended, and, for the children at least, was a gala event.

Two huge bonfires had been prepared and with a generous sprinkling of time honored pumpkin lanterns, and Chinese ones the grounds were sufficiently lighted for such a "spooky" occasion. Many of the children had dressed in ghost or masquerade costumes which added greatly to their enjoyment of the occasion.

A male quartet, Messrs. Cramer, Kammerer, Graves and Herrington sang, "Seein' Things at Night," and "The Tack."

Marie Pürmort, Irene Preston, Callista Atkinson and Therna Glass, recited "Little Orphant Annie." Lucile Gard sang two little songs and Mr. Kammerer gave a short talk.

A witch's booth from which fortunes were dispensed, and Hallowe'en games helped make a good time—An abundance of apples and nuts, which the parents had kindly furnished were much appreciated by young and old.

The club extends thanks for all assistance rendered in any way and for the collection, the latter amounting to $4.25.

JAPS KNOW NO PROFANITY

Their Language Contains No "Swear-words," Unfortunately So Common in the West.

The Jap is always polite, but once in a while he slips from grace—and when he does he is up against it, for there are no swearwords in the Japanese language, says a writer in Leslie's Weekly. When a Japanese meets you he bows three times and takes off his hat, but does not shake hands. When he greets you his first concern is about your ancestors and next about your stomach. It would be almost an open insult for one Japanese to meet another without asking him how his stomach fared. On the third bow he asks: "This morning, how is it with your honorable inside?" As you come up on your third bow you answer to the effect that the place mentioned is doing as well as could be expected and in turn ask him what news he has from the front. Then he lifts his hat again and says: "Your delightful head this morning, I hope it have no commotion." When you tell him that you are pleased to report that it feels well this morning he asks about a few generations of honorable ancestors and then you are free to take up the weather.

Even though they are elaborately polite, once in a while one Japanese will get mad at another. Their anger kindles slowly at first, finally flaring to a blaze that knows no staying. But even though there is a torrent of emotion seething in his soul there are no words to give it vent; it keeps surging harder and harder until it throws aside all restraint and gives up all idea of decency by putting into one phrase all his bitterness and snapping squarely into the other man's astonished face the worst thing that can be said in the whole language: "Your stomach is not on straight!" This is the final insult; nothing more can be added—he has cast the glove. There is nothing left for him to do but to give his enemy a cutting look, turn on his heel and haughtily clap-clap away on his wooden shoes.

Codfish Market Swamped.

A big influx of codfish along the northern and eastern coasts during the latter part of June caused a salt famine in the Ancient Colony. The salt used by the Newfoundland fishfolk for curing their catch is obtained from Trapani in Sicily and Cadiz in Spain. Practically all the salt in the island has been absorbed, and it is claimed that about 15,000 tons more could be advantageously used if it were available. At least this quantity, and probably more, has been ordered, and should arrive during the next month, but much of it will come to hand too late to be of any real service. This shortage of salt is likely to affect the banking fleet also, which has had exceptional good fortune in its earlier voyages this year. The average price of cod paid last year and the year before, both in Newfoundland and Nova Scotia, was about $6.50 per quintal, but with foreign markets as they are at present it is hoped that at least another twenty-five cents per quintal may be obtained. The fact that fish of late are so plentiful is inducing industry, and also stimulating smaller operators to prosecute the shore fishery more extensively.

Holland's Water Trenches.

The war department of the Netherlands has developed a new sort of trench for use in the low and marshy parts of the country where, in case of invasion, the chief battles might be expected. Fighting along the Yser has taught the strength of a water defense above all others. For this purpose, as is well known, the so-called "waterline" has been brought into readiness. But a great deal of fighting might take place upon the endless tracts of meadows which lie all around the capital of the kingdom. The trenches which will here be constructed will be arranged in such a way that at a moment's notice they can be turned into flooded ditches.

In the warfare in France and Russia a conquered trench means an added strength for the enemies, who immediately turn the trench into a fortress of their own. The Dutch trenches, when it is necessary to abandon them, will almost automatically become a deep flooded ditch, which will be no use to anyone and will merely form another obstacle on the way forward.

If Civilians Learn to Shoot.

Civilian rifle clubs are lately receiving much attention. They have developed a number of men who are excellent shots with 22-caliber rifles, and, at a distance of 50 to 75 yards, comparatively few, however, are able to handle the modern high-powered caliber United States magazine rifle and hit a target 1,000 yards away. Moreover, even were all our civilian shooters, it must be remembered, are merely one of the parts of a soldier's training that it is a very small part of what a soldier can do nothing but the same relative to a player who can sit and wield a mallet skillfully, or a rider a horse.—The Boston, Jr., in Col.

In Eastern HONDURAS

HONDURANIAN FAMILY

FOR many years the Miskito Indians of Eastern Honduras have been raising the Mace-donian cry to the Moravian missionaries among their race in Nicaraguan territory. Thanks principally to the self-denial offerings of the Bluefields Moravian Sunday schools, it became possible in the spring of last year for two of us to visit every Miskito village of importance in this neglected and dark part of Honduras, writes Rev. Theodore Reinke in the Christian Herald.

Bidding farewell to civilization at the little town of Puerto Cabo Gracias a Dios, at the northeast corner of Nicaragua, about thirty or thirty-five miles of beach were traversed the first day. Two days were spent in an Indian village at False Cape, where there is a small, walled, leaf-thatched meeting house, and where there are a number of Christians and candidates, all under the care of the missionary stationed at Cabo Gracias a Dios. We told these people our errand and called for volunteers to accompany us. After several palavers, two men and three women were found willing to go. On their advice we adopted the plan of visiting the inland villages on our way west and touching at the coast villages on the return.

All this country is flat and scarcely above sea level. A group of villages cluster about the mouth of the Karuta river, which empties into the Caribbean at False Cape. From here it is more than a day's travel up river to the next group of villages, called Laka. We encamped the first night in a little banana clearing, where the owner of our immense dugout canoe had a thatched shed. On landing, a few little monkeys were spied, and great was the delight among the natives when one was shot, for their flesh is prized. In a short time the bare shed was magically transformed. While the women were busy baking and peeling green bananas, and boiling coffee around the fire, the rest were bringing in the great banana leaves for beds on the ground. Each member of the party had his own square cloth mosquito bar, which affords some privacy in addition to protection from bloodthirsty insects. These little shelters were quickly hung in a row, and a miniature white city was the result. The effect was quite striking in the light of the pitch pine torches, which flared fitfully as we read from the Miskito Testament stories from the life of Jesus.

Live on Little Islands.

The Laka villages are widely scattered. To reach the first village of but five houses, we had to tramp for two hours and at last wade almost knee-deep in mud and water. The people elect to live on little islands in the midst of these flats on account of their cattle; but in the dry season the water is so low that all their food supply, principally bananas, has to be carried by ponies or women from the river-side.

Our hosts showed us a great deal of kindness. We were given the freedom of the largest house and were provided with bananas, casava, eggs, fowl, and coconuts. As far as we could discover, these people had never come in contact with the Gospel; but they were glad to listen, and not only received us hospitably, but furnished us with horses and guides, and did all they could to help us on our way, with no thought of remuneration. They were far removed from traders as well as missionaries. The housewives were more industrious than their more civilized sisters farther south. A crude native loom stood against the wall, and samples of heavy cloth, or canvas, made from cotton which here grows on plants the size of trees, were in evidence. Hammocks made of cord spun from the inner bark of the mahoe tree were plentiful. The art of tanning leather and making moccasins is also known.

A seaward village was made the next stopping place. An honest old man who was our host begged us to appeal to the English King for redress against what he regarded as the oppression of the government officials, who visit them occasionally and tax them for their cattle. The old man supplied us with two boats and accompanied us with his chief wife on the long journey to Tansen on the inland side of Lake Karataska. As we were crossing the lake—so wide that in some directions one cannot see the shore—the wind began to rise, and we were in danger of being swamped.

Back of this immense Karataska lagoon are four other large lagoons. Into one of which the Ibantera river empties. About its shores there is a small Miskito population. A man of this neighborhood, who had the promising name of "Morning Star," owned a large dugout canoe, which he agreed to lend us and to accompany us on our way. His was the only family at home in his little village, everyone else having crossed the Karataska lagoon to attend a "Siko," or ghost-expelling drinking bout. Morning Star's mother-in-law was a most repulsive-looking creature—a good model for a witch of Endor painting—but when we left her she said: "Pray for me."

Down the Butuk River.

Fourteen hours of paddling and sailing brought us through three of the lagoons to the small settlements along the Butuk river. We had great difficulty in securing transportation down river. A boatload of merchandise, mainly rum, had been brought over the route the day before, and almost every man was suffering from the effects of its presence in this region.

In 12 hours' travel with the river current, we did not encounter a single human being nor any habitation of man. The banks of the river, however, literally swarmed with iguanas. It was the time of the year when they lay their eggs, and wherever a high sandbank stood out it was honey-combed with their burrows. Our people caught them with their hands. Iguana flesh is superior to chicken, though the eggs are not as good as turtle eggs.

At the mouth of the Plantain river, between Black river and Brewer's Lagoon bar, a few Indians of the Paya tribe were encountered. Most of their people live far inland. They resemble the Sumu Indians of the hinterland of Nicaragua, but have a language quite distinct from theirs. At a village at the eastern mouth of the Butuk river we were received most cordially. Some relatives of our party had their homes here, and we were feasted on milk and native rice, besides the ubiquitous green bananas.

In about thirty-six miles of walking after leaving this place, we saw only one house; and at the little village of Uhi, only four. Our host at Uhi was a desperate-looking character, and the houses and the rest of the people were filthy and repellent. We were insulted (according to the Miskito code) by being called wild, and threatened with divine wrath, if we did not stay to hold a meeting. It seemed that Dama Bias, our host, had heard somewhere about the meetings that padres keep, and got the idea that one of them would surely bring good luck to his place!

Half a day's march from the Kruta river we reached the Kaukirra group of villages—the poorest houses of any we had yet seen. Here we discovered a heathen preacher, who actually possesses part of an English Bible, which of course he cannot read. A few families from Grand Caymans live in this neighborhood, and raise cattle and coconuts. They say that since the cessation of mahogany cutting, the Indians have no money.

Kruta was reached on Maundy Thursday, and we had a real missionary meeting on Good Friday. That night we journeyed on to Cabo Gracias a Dios and arrived there on the morning of our twenty-ninth day, having covered, as nearly as we can estimate, a distance of from 450 to 475 miles.

THE MAGIC ROCK.

Once upon a time there was a little old woman who lived in a little old house. She had a little dog and a little old pig.

People called her a witch, but if she was, she was a good witch, for she loved the dog and pig very much, and sometimes you could hear her singing to the pig:

You shall have a silver pall
And a ribbon for your tail.
And the pig would say "Ugh, Ugh," as if he understood. And then she would sing again:

You shall have a feather bed,
And a pillow for your head.
And the pig would answer "Ugh" again. Then she would sing to the dog:

Doggie, you shall have a collar of gold
And eat your food from a silver bowl.
And the dog would say "Bow wow."

Not very far from the old lady who lived in the little old house with the little old dog and the little old pig lived a little girl named Margaret, with her sister Sarah. Margaret was a pleasant girl, but Sarah was disagreeable and cross. They were very poor, and Margaret would tell Sarah that some day they would be fortunate, but Sarah was cross because she could not have pretty dresses and live in a big house.

One day Sarah was very cross, and Margaret was feeling sad, and stood by the gate, crying, when the old lady came along with the little old dog and the little old pig.

"What are you crying about?" she asked.

Margaret told her.
"Dry your tears," she said, "and listen to me. Tonight at 12 o'clock walk down the road until you come to a tree where an old owl is saying 'Who, who.' Take the path by that tree and follow it along through the woods until you reach a big rock. Tap on the rock three times and repeat this:

"Open, rock, at break of day;
To what I ask do not say nay."
Then you must ask for the things you want, and wait for the break of day, but if you are asleep when day breaks the spell will be broken. A fairy told this to me, but I am too old to walk such a long distance, and, besides, I have all I need, and am content."

A Big Lion Put Out His Head and Roared at Her.

Now, Sarah heard what the old witch told Margaret, and that night she locked her in the house and went to the rock herself. She tapped it three times and said:

"Open, rock, at break of day;
To what I ask do not say nay."
Then she said, "I want a lot of money, pretty clothes and a big house, and a coach and four black horses." She lay down by the side of the rock and took a nap, and was awake before the break of day, and as the light came, she saw the rock open, and a big lion put out his head and roared at her. She ran as fast as she could, and did not stop until she reached home. Then she unlocked the door and let her sister out.

"You can go to the rock, if you like," she said, "but I will warn you that you will find a lion, who will eat you if he catches you."

This did not frighten Margaret, and the next night at midnight she walked down the road. "Who, who," said the owl, and she took the path as the old lady told her. When she came to the rock she tapped three times upon it, and said the words:

"Open, rock, at break of day;
To what I ask do not say nay."
"I want money to make my sister and me comfortable, and I would like a goldheaded cane for the little old lady and a gold collar for the little old dog and a ribbon for the tail of the little old pig," she said.

Then she sat down beside the rock and waited for the daylight to come, but she remembered what her sister had said about the lion, and when it began to be light, she went behind a tree and watched, but when the rock opened she did not see a lion, and she looked into the opening. There was a bag of gold for her, and a gold-headed cane for the little old lady, and the collar for the little old dog's little old dog lay beside it, but where was the ribbon for the tail of the little old pig?

Margaret saw a large nut, and she cracked it open, and a red ribbon dropped out. She was glad, for she wanted the little old pig to have the ribbon for his tail, the little old lady had promised it to him so many times. Margaret took all her good fortune and ran home.

Sarah was just getting up. "Well, the lion did not eat you," she said, "but I am sure you ran as fast as I did. The little old woman is a bad old witch."

Then Margaret showed her the bag of gold. Sarah became very angry, for she thought Margaret would keep all of it, as she would have done, but Margaret emptied out half of the gold and gave it to Sarah, who was very much pleased and surprised. Then Margaret hurried to the little old house, where the little old lady lived with the little old dog and the little old pig, and gave the little old lady the cane, and the gold collar for the little old dog and the ribbon for the tail of the little old pig.

The little old lady was so pleased that she danced around the room and the little old dog ran after her barking "Bow-wow," and the little old pig followed, grunting "Ugh, ugh." Margaret was very happy because the little old lady and her little old animals were pleased, and when she reached home her sister met her at the door and kissed her. "I have been a very selfish girl," she told Margaret, "but I will try to do better in the future, and I shall live here with you, and not spend my money for clothes." And they lived in peace and plenty ever after.

MAKING HUT OF BRUSHWOOD

Lean Pole Against Tree, Then Thatch It With Branches—Thicker the Roof, Cooler the Tent.

A very simple hut can be made by cutting a pole and leaning it against a tree, binding its end there; then thatch it with branches or brushwood.

Where you have no poles available you can do as the South African natives do—pile up a lot of brushwood, bushes, etc., into a small wall made in semicircle, to keep out the wind, and make your fire in the open part.

If your tent or hut is too hot in the sun, put blankets or more straw, etc., over the top. The thicker the roof the cooler the tent in summer. If it is too cold make the bottom of the wall thicker or build a small wall of sods about a foot high round the foot of the wall outside. Never forget to dig a good drain all round your hut, so that if heavy rain falls in the night your floor will not get flooded from outside.

Zulus make their huts by planting in the ground a circle of long whippy sticks standing upright, then they bend the tops all down towards the center and tie them together, then they weave more whippy sticks around, in and out of the uprights horizontally, until they have made a kind of circular bird cage; this they then cover with a straw mat or thatch, or with straw woven on to the sticks. Sometimes a small hole is left at the top where all the sticks join, to act as a chimney.

WHAT CLUB BOYS ARE DOING

Dakota Youth Made Net Profit of $8.00 on Setting of Eggs—Good Results Obtained With Corn.

In South Dakota one poultry club boy made a net profit of $8.00, based on a setting of 15 eggs.

The state agent for Utah reports $28.75 as the highest net profit covering the season, while Oregon reports $50 over the same period.

In the clubs that have raised corn and pigs jointly, some good results have been obtained.

A pork and crop production boy of Minnesota made $118 net profit for the season from nine pigs and an acre of corn. His corn yielded 95 bushels to the acre.

In Utah, where conditions are not nearly so favorable, the boys did well, one member making $31.56 as a result of his combined work. His corn showed a yield of 86.75 bushels.

Practically all of the Sugar Beet club members are in Utah and Colorado. The state agent in charge of club work of Utah reports 25.34 tons as the highest yield, and $47.18 as the highest net profit. Five hundred and forty-six club members' reports show an average yield of 20.4 tons, and an average net profit of $37.60.

For Spending Money.

A great deal is said about keeping the boy on the farm. The boy can be kept there if the girls are there. Then why not give the girl a chance for making spending money by having a flock of chickens?

TO CAN FRUIT IN OVEN

By This Method Fruit Retains Its Shape, Color and Flavor to Remarkable Extent.

Cooking canned fruit in the oven is easily and quickly done, while the fruit retains its shape, color and flavor better than when cooked in a preserving kettle.

Cover the bottom of the oven with a sheet of asbestos, the same as used by plumbers for covering furnace pipes. This is very reasonable at any plumbing shop. If it is impossible to purchase the asbestos, use a large pan in which there is about two inches of boiling water. Thoroughly sterilize the jars and utensils. Make the sirup of sugar and water as sweet as needed. Prepare the fruit the same as for cooking in the preserving kettle. Fill the hot jars with this, pouring in sufficient sirup to fill the jar. Run the blade of a silver knife around the inside of each jar. (Never use a steel knife.) Place the jars in the oven either on the asbestos or in the open pan of water.

The oven should be moderately hot. Cook the fruit ten minutes. Remove from the oven and fill each jar with boiling sirup. Wipe and seal. If the screw covers are used, tighten them after the glass has thoroughly cooled.

Large fruits may require a pint of sirup to each quart jar of fruit. The small fruit will require a little over half a pint of the sirup.—Ladies' World.

SOME SIMPLE FOOD TESTS

How Potomine Poisoning Can Be Avoided by Testing Contents of Can for Copper.

Chicory is not harmful and some like it, but when we buy coffee we don't want to pay coffee price for chicory. To find out whether you are buying the real thing, put a tablespoonful of the coffee in a glass; pour cold water over it, and watch.

If the coffee is pure the water will hardly be stained. If chicory is present it turns the water a deep brown color.

Here is a good test for canned foods: Put a bright, clean steel knife in the contents directly you open the can. Leave for a minute. If copper is present it will be seen on the knife's blade and you've escaped ptomaine poisoning.

Fresh eggs will always sink in water. Stale eggs have smooth and glassy shells; fresh eggs have a lime-like surface.

Minced Chicken, Cream Sauce.

Put into a saucepan one tablespoonful of butter, one gill of stock and two tablespoonfuls of stale bread crumbs and stir until boiling. Then add one pint of cold chicken, chopped fine; a teaspoonful salt, a dash of pepper and a teaspoonful of chopped parsley. Remove from the fire and add two well-beaten eggs; fill into small greased molds, stand in hot water and cook in the oven 15 minutes. Serve hot with a cream sauce made from rich milk, thickened to the consistency of cream. Very nice.

Kitchen Tables.

Two tables in the kitchen lessen work, one preferably zinc-covered to be used for such rough work as preparing vegetables and meats and dishing up meals, the other for general convenience. Close to the first, which should be on castors but stand near sink and stove, should be meat-block, food-chopper or a bowl and chopping knife, paring knife, vegetable cutters, skewers, basting spoons and such other articles as are frequently used at this table.

Swiss Steak.

Lay thick round steak on a board, sprinkle with salt and pepper and pound in all the flour the meat will take. Treat the other side in the same manner. Put a little butter into the frying pan and when smoking hot brown the meat quickly on both sides. Fill the pan two-thirds full of hot water, cover closely and let cook one and a half or two hours. Onion may be added if desired. When done the gravy will be already thickened.

Frosted Peaches.

Select firm, good peaches. Rub carefully to remove fuzz. Beat the whites of six eggs, with a scant cupful of water. Dip the peaches in this, then roll in powdered sugar, lay on paper in sun to dry. Repeat until there is thick coating of the sugar around the peach. If entirely covered, these will keep for a long time, and this is a favorite English method of preparing peaches.

Rhubarb Pudding.

Two pounds of rhubarb, wash and cut in pieces. Don't peel. Then cover with water well and stew until very soft and all color is stewed out of the rhubarb. Then strain and put back on stove with one and one-half cupfuls of sugar added and thicker with two tablespoonfuls of cornstarch. Boil about ten minutes and then set in ice chest in a mold. Nice with cream and sugar.

Candied Peaches.

Weigh the peaches, and to each pound allow three-quarters of a pound of sugar. Cut each peach into about six pieces. Add just enough water to moisten the sugar and melt it over the fire. Boil each piece of peach in it until it is tender, but not until it breaks easily. Remove from the thick sirup again and then in sugar and repeat until the peach is thoroughly dried. Pack in covered glass jars.

PROTECT EAR DRUMS

Soldiers in Modern Warfare Need Safeguards.

Frightful Detonation of Modern Guns Would Speedily Cause Deafness If Most Elaborate Precautions Were Not Taken.

The soldier who plugged up his ears before going into battle would have been considered effeminate in the last century. The horrid din of war, fully as the poets have expatiated upon it, included until recently no sound powerful enough to split the drum of a man's ear, or to rack his nerves to the threshold of insanity. Things are different nowadays. It is absolutely necessary to guard the ears in some effective way when one is in the vicinity of a big gun. Even with due precaution the gunners themselves often suffer from deafness, as is noted by C. V. Boys. Our quotation below is from an abstract of Mr. Boys' note: "The sudden access of pressure in the neighborhood of a gun at the moment of firing imposes so great a strain on the drum of the ear that deafness is a usual result. The increase in pressure in the modern gun, and the high pressure still remaining when the shot reaches the muzzle, make the conditions more serious than they used to be until comparatively recently. Not only those who are near the gun when fired, but those also in the neighborhood of bursting shells, bombs or explosives are liable to suffer in a similar way even if they are not otherwise damaged.

"A. Mallock, who has for many years conducted investigations in connection with artillery, has invented an 'ear-defender,' the object of which is to protect the drum of the ear from very sudden and violent access of pressure, while still allowing the minute variations produced by ordinary sounds to be received with but little loss. The defender consists of a containing-piece made of ebonite and shaped like the pieces used in the game of halma, and of about the same size. The ball end is very finely milled and it is made to fit the passage of the ear, there being five sizes, differing very slightly in dimensions in this part, to suit different people. The piece is pierced centrally by a hole one-fourth inch in diameter at the small end, and gradually enlarging toward the other end, where it opens into a recess five-eighths inch in diameter. Into this is fitted in order a flat-ring washer, a disk of fine wire gauze, a very thin flat-ring washer, a delicate diaphragm, a very thin flat-ring washer, a disk of fine gauze and a flat-ring washer."

Mr. Boys goes on to explain how this device protects the delicate membrane of the tympanum from the ear-splitting noises of battle while permitting the wearer to hear ordinary sounds distinctly:

"When a pair of defenders is placed in the ears the thin diaphragm untouched except near their edges, where they are held, are free to take up aerial vibrations and to transmit them to the ear-passages. Thus ordinary sounds are heard with little loss. When, however, the violent impact due to gun-fire or explosion in the neighborhood occurs, the diaphragm is brought up against the wire gauze, by which further movement is checked, also the injurious increase of pressure. Hence the ear is defended."

EDITOR HAD AN IDEA

But Circumstances Prevented Him Utilizing It.

Something Happened Which Was Worth Ten Such Thoughts as Had Come to the Scribe—So This Particular Gem Was Lost.

One day the Observer had an idea. It is a rare experience, and the obvious thing to do was to get it down on paper just as quickly as the speed limit on his old typewriter allows. He grabbed a sheet of paper, rammed it into the typewriter, and started reaching for the first letter when the office door opened and a lady came in.

The lady, whose home is near Milford, extended a piece of paper and some money, with the remark that it was a subscription bill, somewhat overdue, which she had come in to pay. Glancing at the paper the Observer had a shock which drove that incipient idea into the remotest corner of his belfry, where it seems to be lost forever. He is absolutely unable to remember what that great thought was about, what stirring gleam of sense was about to be born and given to the world. This is his excuse:

The bill which was extended for payment was dated May, 1894.

The explanation was that an old trunk in the attic was wanted for use, and in cleaning it out, among a lot of old receipts and papers, they had discovered this old bill. The system of filing bills and receipts was such as to make these honest people quite sure that the bill had not been paid.

The lady was assured that if there was any record of the account, now 21 years old, it was in the cobweb-encrusted old books in the garret, that the account was outlawed anyway, and that very likely a duplicate of the bill had been paid 20 years ago. She was obdurate. She had come to pay that bill and get a receipt. An offer to receipt for it for half the amount was not satisfactory. It was her rule, and her husband's, to pay in full for everything, and she had traveled several miles to settle an account old enough to be a legal voter. She paid and took her receipt, and if she did not then and there create a world's record for deferred payment she made one which is seldom equaled.

As stated, the bill was paid but the "idea" was gone. However, the idea was probably worth about twenty cents, which is one-tenth the amount of the bill, so if anybody else can dig up any antique accounts and pay them they are welcome to drive out, shoo away, slaughter and swat any and all budding notions, at any time, any place, day or night.—Milford Cabinet.

EASY TO HAVE PURE WATER

Simple Filter That May Be Constructed Wherever Campers Are on Banks of a Stream.

A simple filter and cooler that anyone the least ingenious can prepare is described in detail in the Journal of the American Medical Association. With it pure water may be obtained from any stream of water.

A large pall with a stout handle is the best receptacle for the water. A hole is punched in the bottom and over it a tin box is soldered. The floor of the tin box—one of the kind in which candy is packed may be used—is perforated with holes and a spring is attached to the cover and the bottom of the box. The spring is inclosed in a tube made by rolling up a sheet of tin, obtained, with solder, from tin cans. A chain is attached to the watertight cover of the box and the box is filled with alternate layers of charcoal and well-packed cotton.

Suspended in the stream, the pall soon fills up with the filtered water. Then, by loosening the chain, the spring cover drops back watertight on the box, and the whole pall, full of filtered water, is ready to be carried off for use.

Their Long Kid Gloves. Some ingenious women in Ireland have found a use for their discarded long white or colored kid gloves. These they turn into a lining for waistcoats for the men of army and navy, who find that the kid makes the waistcoat windproof. It takes a number of pairs to line one garment, therefore the demand is great, and a brisk collection goes on.

Plan a "Dead Beat" Gallery. The formation of a national gallery containing detailed information of "dead beats," is one of the aims of the Retail Credit Men's National association, which recently closed its sessions at Duluth, Minn. The idea is to send detailed information about chronic "dead beats" from city to city.

THE CHARM OF MOTHERHOOD

Enhanced By Perfect Physical Health.

The experience of Motherhood is a trying one to most women and marks distinctly an epoch in their lives. Not one woman in a hundred is prepared or understands how to properly care for herself. Of course nearly every woman nowadays has medical treatment at such times, but many approach the experience with an organism unfitted for the trial of strength, and when it is over her system has received a shock from which it is hard to recover. Following right upon this comes the nervous strain of caring for the child, and a distinct change in the mother results.

There is nothing more charming than a happy and healthy mother of children, and indeed child-birth under the right conditions need be no hazard to health or beauty. The unexplainable thing is that, with all the evidence of shattered nerves and broken health resulting from an unprepared condition, and with ample time in which to prepare, women will persist in going blindly to the task.

Every woman at this time should turn to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, a most valuable tonic and invigorator of the female organism.

In many homes once childless there are now children because of the fact that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound makes women normal, healthy and strong.

Plants That Mimic Stones.
In South Africa there is found a plant of the genus Mossamburghia, growing on stony ground, which so closely resembles a pebble that it is invariably taken by the stranger to be a stone.
Another species of the same plant growing on the hills round the Karoo has two leaves about as large as eggs, having a surface resembling a weathered stone of brownish color, tinged with green. These look like stones, but for a short time put forth bright yellow flowers. Another species of the same genus has the quartz pebbles which it grows.
Royal River.
This is termed in the east "stone" from the fact that it is used on its banks.

OUR PUBLIC FORUM

IV.—F. A. VANDERLIP
On The Business of Banking

The farmers of this nation to come into their own must study business. We must, as a class, understand the fundamental principles that underlie every industry, its functions to society and its relation to agriculture, for there can be no intelligent co-operation without understanding. Mr. F. A. Vanderlip, president of the National City Bank of New York, when asked "What is a bank?" said in part:
"The first and most familiar function of a bank is that of gathering up the idle money of a community, small sums and large, and thus forming a pool or reservoir upon which responsible persons may draw as they have temporary use for money. It is evident that this makes large sums in the aggregate available for the employment of labor and the development of the community. But much more is accomplished than the use of the money actually deposited in the banks, for by the use of drafts, checks and bank notes the efficiency of money is multiplied several times over. A very large business, for example one of the great beef packers, may use very little actual money; on one side of its bank account will be entered the checks and drafts it is daily receiving from everywhere in payment for meats, while on the other side will be entered the checks it draws in payment for cattle, etc., its only use of money being for small payments, to labor and otherwise.
If there were but one bank in a community and everybody paid all bills by drawing checks on that bank, and everyone receiving a check immediately deposited it in the bank, the amount of money in the bank evidently would not change at all and the entire business of the community would be settled on the books of the bank. And the situation is but slightly changed when there are several banks, for they daily exchange among themselves all the checks they receive on each other, which practically offset themselves, although the small balances are paid in cash. This is called 'clearing' and in every large city there is a 'Clearing House' where representatives of the banks meet daily to settle their accounts with each other.
A bank is constantly receiving from its customers, particularly those that are shipping products to other localities, drafts and checks drawn on banks in other cities, which it usually sends for deposit to a few correspondent banks in the central cities with which it maintains permanent accounts. In this way these scattered credits are consolidated and the bank draws upon these accounts in supplying customers with the means of making payments away from home. As each local community sells and buys about the same amount abroad in the course of a year, these payments largely offset each other. It is evident that the banks are very intimately related to the trade and industry of a country. The banker is a dealer in credit much more than a dealer in money, and of course his own credit must be above question. He exchanges his credit for the credits acquired by the customers, and lends credit for their accommodation, but he must conduct the business with such judgment that he can always meet his own obligations with cash on demand. This is the essential thing about bank credit, that it shall always be the same as cash."

YOUR TROUBLES.
John Wesley was once walking with a brother, who related to him his troubles, saying he did not know what he should do. They were at that moment passing a stone wall, over which a cow was looking.
"Do you know," asked Wesley, "why that cow looks over that wall?"
"No," replied the one in trouble.
"I will tell you," said Wesley. "It is because she cannot look through it. And that is what you must do with your troubles—look over and above them."

FRIENDS are much in the life of a man, in fact, real friends are the life of the individual man or woman, for what is life without friends. To most of us, it would be worthless. In the words of the immortal Shakespeare, "Those friends thou hast, and their adoption tried, grapple them to thy soul with hoops of steel, but do not dull thy palm with entertainment of each new-hatch'd, unfledged comrade."

A visitor to our beautiful home town recently remarked on the exceptional cleanly moral atmosphere of our town and especially that which apparently existed among the high school students. It is a very noticeable fact that we have one of the finest body of students to be found in the state, and that fact should be heralded from north to south and east to west that those parents who are looking for the best of environments in which to educate their children may know of Campbell, not the biggest town in the county but one of the best, morally.

DOES the average teamster on our highways realize the terrible risk he is taking while driving at night without lights? Every one who drives a horse after night should take the first opportunity of riding in an auto at night and note how really difficult it is to see objects on the road when looking into the lights of an on-coming auto. The writer had such an opportunity on the state highway recently, meeting machines every few yards. If our driver had been driving even up to the speed limit two different parties would have been severely bumped at least as they had no lights and were not seen until right in front. There is a law which will go into effect on Dec. 15th requiring all vehicles to carry lights, but why take the risk of losing your life just for a few more days of "personal liberty." "Safety first."

Local and Personal Musical A Success

The first number of the Epworth League course of entertainment, Friday evening, was a big success and the church auditorium was filled with a most appreciative audience.

The Campbell trio, Messrs. Halamicek and Kalas, and Miss Bessie Kalas, is always a real musical treat and the Campbell public never fails to hear these artists. In quartet work they were assisted by Miss Marjorie Fisher of San Jose, who plays the viola.

Miss Muriel Palmer, contralto, rendered several very pretty solos all of which were heartily enjoyed by her host of friends. The program for the evening was as follows:
Quartette, Op. 16, Beethoven; Trio, Romance, Jaksch; Vocal Solo, The Danza, Chadwick; Quartette, Prize Song, Wagner; Cello, Kol Nidrei, Bruch; Vocal Solo, (a) Boat Song, Harriet Ware; (b) Lungi Dal Caro Bene, Secchi; Trio, Hejre Kati, Hubay and Quartette, Herne Bay, Jacobi.

Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Donaldson are visiting their son at Esparto, Cal.
The J. F. Duncan family were among the big crowd at the Fair Tuesday.
Mrs. Warren Shelly and Mrs. Carson are enjoying a short stay at Seabright.
Mrs. Muller of San Francisco was the guest of Mrs. M. E. Purmort last week.
Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Keith spent the fore part of the week at San Francisco.

Help out the tired cook at your house and buy cooked foods at the Coffee Club next Saturday, Nov. 6th. Pumpkin pies a specialty: brown bread, baked beans, gingerbread, fruit cake, etc., etc.

Miss Marion Duncan entertained her Sunday School class Saturday afternoon in honor of Miss Ruth Cowles the former teacher. The class presented Miss Cowles with a silver spoon as a slight token of their sincere esteem.

The boys' gymnasium at the Congregational church was reopened Monday evening with a class of enthusiastic young "strong men" on the job. James Fablinger will act as instructor for the rest of this year and maybe longer.

Miss Edna Beardsley entertained a number of her young lady friends at a Halloween party Friday evening at her home on Johnson avenue. The guests attended attired in ghostly costumes and the evening was pleasantly spent in spooky games and seasonal stunts.

Messrs. Bogert, Stuart and Van Arsdell drove their autos to the fair yesterday loaded with sightseers. Those comprising the party were Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Kimmel; Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Dunning; Mrs. Sadie Thomas, Mrs. Orie Grizzle, Misses Ellen and Lillie Carney and Miss Winnie Grizzle.

W. W. Stewart left yesterday with his car of household goods and stock for their new home in Furlock. Mrs. Stewart who recently underwent an operation will remain here with Mrs. F. S. Newcomb until she is able to make the trip. Miss Agnes will take the other children across in the auto and help get settled. She will live with her friend Miss Adah Nelson until she finishes Normal.

Miss Clark gave a most interesting talk Sunday evening on the work of the Y. W. C. A. with the young ladies employed at the Exposition grounds. The profits from the cafeteria, the most popular eating place on the grounds, is all being spent for the benefit of the working girls. These profits have paid for the building and a club house on the Zone and furnished many a comfort for the ladies. The work now being carried on particularly is to prepare these girls for other positions after the Fair and locate future positions for them.

Raise Rates?

Claiming that if the railroads' compensation for transporting the mails is not adequate, the burden necessarily falls upon the shipping and traveling public, the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, through its Board of Directors, has adopted a resolution calling for an investigation of the railway mail pay subject by the Interstate Commerce Commission. "The text of the resolution follows:
"Whereas, The railroads of the United States claim and vigorously maintain that the compensation accorded them by the Post Office Department for the transportation of the mails is inadequate for the service performed; and
"Whereas, In various rate advance cases the carriers have insisted that their total net income is insufficient, and their claim has been an important factor in such cases; and
"Whereas, If the carriers' compensation for transporting the mails be not adequate, the burden necessarily falls upon the shipping and traveling public and also upon the public at large to make up the deficiency through higher freight and passenger rates;

"RESOLVED, That it is the sense of the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce that the fact should be speedily ascertained as to whether the railroad companies are receiving adequate compensation for the mail service; and further, that the Interstate Commerce Commission is the proper body to assist in ascertaining the facts, and that this Commission be authorized and directed to investigate the entire question and report as speedily as possible its findings and recommendations for the guidance of Congress; and further
"RESOLVED, That copies of the resolution be forwarded to the Postmaster General and to the members of the Senate and House of Representatives."

Finally after over a year's wait, Mr. Atkinson has secured for Sunday night one of the three best sets of slides. This one is on "Mohammedanism," the religion which declared a "Holy War" on all Christians in the Ottoman Empire. These slides are beautifully colored, and very distinct. In these pictures we visit India, Egypt, Turkey, we see Mecca, the Kaaba, the sacred black stone of Mohammedanism. This is a time chance to see and hear about the religion which is said to be "Christianity's Greatest Rival."
Come and bring a friend with you.

W. C. T. U. Notes

Campbell union met Nov. 3d. with Mrs. Cora Townsend. After devotionals led by Mrs. Mattie Thompson a number of communications from Mrs. Doris, Mrs. De Yo, Dr. Gandier, D. O. Colegrove and others were read and discussed.
Further arrangements were made for the cooked food sale to be held at the Coffee Club Nov. 6th beginning at 2:00 p. m.
Miss Caldwell led in Parliamentary instruction. The subject for the afternoon "How Medal Contests help Prohibition" was then taken up and several articles were read.
The next meeting, Nov. 24th, will be held at the home of Mrs. Clara Gilman, and after business meeting there will be held a reception, with a short program, social hour and refreshments in honor of Mrs. M. Ringe and Mrs. Anna Stewart who are soon to leave us for new homes. All members are urged to be present.

Methodist Church Notes

Our committee secured eighty signatures to the prohibition petitions last Sunday, and have been vigorously prosecuting the canvass for more names since.
Mrs. M. J. Palmer returned to her home on First St. Wednesday evening from the sanitarium, and is slowly gaining strength.
Cecil Graves was operated on for appendicitis at Columbia Hospital Wednesday, and is reported to be in a critical condition due to the advanced stage of the trouble before the operation was performed.
Ben Rodeck is acting as secretary of the Sunday-school during his father's absence.

Mrs. Jennie Parker left Tuesday for New Mexico with some thought of making her future home there. We will miss her in the church services, as she is a very faithful attendant.

Mr. Lloyd was re-elected president of the Santa Clara Valley Methodist Preachers' Meeting at First church, San Jose, Monday. We can only explain this continued honoring of the local pastor by his ministerial brethren as an effort to express the esteem in which the Campbell church is held.

There will be services morning and evening, Sunday, as usual, the pastor preaching. Miss Beth Kennedy has charge of the Epworth League meeting.

The monthly business meeting of the league will be held Wednesday evening at eight o'clock.

The lecture by Dr. Beeks will be Thursday evening, Nov. 11th.

Bad Handicap.

One of the saddest phases of all human experience is the way a man just about the time he succeeds in getting his brain developed to the point where he might accomplish something with it finds that he has to devote all his attention to his teeth, stomach and legs to keep going at all.—Columbus (O.) Journal.

No Chance

Little old Manhattan is flat-footed, wears poor shoes and stands up at its work, according to figures compiled by Captain Frank E. Evans of the local recruiting office of the United States Marine Corps.

Captain Evans is authority for the statement that approximately 18 per cent of all applicants who applied for enlistment in the Marine Corps at its Twenty-third Street office during the past year, were rejected for "pes planus", or flat-foot. He puts the blame on the cheaply constructed, poorly made shoes the average toiler wears at his work for the epidemic of falling arch, and on the fact that the majority of victims claimed they were forced to stand on their feet for long stretches while at their employment.

Motormen, conductors, subway guards, policemen, machinists, waiters and clerks are the principal sufferers from "pes planus", Captain Evans says.
